Richmond Early Years Program

We support families with children 0-6 years that are living in Richmond. Support and services are focussed on establishing connections and providing information and resources to encourage children's development. Outreach Workers provide one-on-one support to families with young children to build the connection with other resources from home to the community.

We offer free parent participation program "Toddler Time for Chinese Speaking Families" held at the Richmond Public Library. For more information, call 604-207-5036.

Avenues of Change Richmond

United Way Avenues of Change Richmond is an innovative project that aims to empower parents and caregivers to help children aged 0 - 6 years reach their full potential. The project implements strategies designed to support:

- families with children 0-6 years old to connect with and learn from community services and each other
- children to experience consistently nurturing and stimulating relationships with their parents and caregivers.

United Way Avenues of Change Richmond offers:

Neighbourhood Family Connectors - For parents and / or caregivers who are interested in learning about services and programs available to support young children and families and share this information with other parents. The objective is to foster a culture of parents supporting parents.

Learn and Share Events - Learn and share what you need to nurture your child's healthy development and meet other parents. Professionals in the community speak to parents during Learn and Share events throughout the year.

For more information, contact Annie Leung at 604-207-5027 or email aleung@touchfam.ca.

FamilySmart Parent-in-Residence

For families and caregivers who are parenting a child (0 to young adult) with a mental health and/or substance use challenge.

Program Information

- We are families, whose kids struggle with mental health challenges. We know what it is like because we've been there too.
- We understand how isolating it can feel when your child or youth is struggling.
- We know how hard it can be to find and wait for services and supports when you need help.
- We know that your whole family is being impacted.
- We also know how important you are, how hard you are working and that you may need some support right now, too.

How Can a Parent In Residence (PiR) Help You and Your Family?

We offer peer support to families and caregivers who are parenting a child (0 to young adult) experiencing mental health challenges.

Programs: Parenting & Family Support

RichmondKids.ca

We use our lived experience to help other families. We will listen to you and understand what you are going through because we've been there.

We can connect your family to resources and information about services and supports that are available to you.

We can help you to prepare for meetings with the professionals who are providing services to your child or youth. We know how important these relationships are and that it really makes a difference when we can work well together.

We can talk with you about how you are taking care of yourself, because you matter and we know it's hard to think of yourself when your child is having a hard time.

PiRs can meet with families by phone, video chat, email and in-person.
